BICYCLES CURE ASTHMA.

Views of Physicians Who Have Studied the Subject. The value of bicycle riding for that portion of humanity suffering with divers allments that may be benefited by exercise is no longer disputed very largely. An English physician who has made the study of bicycle riding as it pertains to assismatic persons the object of special research has come out unqualifiedly in favor of the use of the wheel.

Asthma, according to the generally accepted idea, may be cored, or, at least, relieved, by exercising the respiratory oras shortness of breath. The slightest exerden out of the ordinary causes palpitation of the heart and a choking, half-sufficient feeling. The face and head become extremely warm and floshed, and the sensation of extreme discomfort has a depressing effect upon the system. Nearly all first beginners on the theyels find fill climbing decidedly annoying The heart throbs with each effort of the limbs, and the blood surges in heat waves over the body. Perspiration is greatly accelerated, and hill elimbing is voted a nuisance. Constant practice, however, if the heart be sound, soon enables cyclista to climb ordinary hills with a comparative degree of comfort.

it was the resemblance of the symptoms of asthum to the trials of the hill climber that induced the physician who investi-gated the subject to experiment with sele riding open asthmatic patients. He found, first of all, that bicycle riding whether by invalids or by well persons increased the depth of breathing without fatigue More air was taken into the lungs to acrate the blood. Chest expangion increased slightly.

The patient with asthma could not ride very far at first without wheering and coughing. At night he chiked up about as ladly as ever. Little by little, day after day, this wore off, and at length, after a year of moderate riding, it dawned upon him one day that he was so much improved that a ride of thirty or forty miles did not fatigue him in the least. Furthernore, all tout disagreeable tightness over the thest as night from which he had suffered for years was gone, in another year he could ride fifty miles where he had been able to ride twenty five, and without any discomfort. During the winter he rode indoors.

Todas he is practically well. American physicians, who have studied the subject, are inclined to agree with the theory of the bayele cure for arthma. At least nult a dozen instances are cited in New You of men who seem to be partially cared by the judicious use of the wheel.

NOT YET WITHDRAWN. Wellington's Indorsement of Tuck Still on File.

Mr. Martin M. Higgins, of Easton, who his candidacy for the surveyorship of the port, was at the Treasury Department today, writes the Baltimore American's Washington correspondent. Heleacned that there have been no new developments in the matter of the Federal patronage. When Mr. Wellington notified Secretary Gage some time ago that he would no longer indorse br. Tuck for the collectorship of internal revenue, Mr. Gage re-plied that he would be expected to place his withdrawal of his former indors in writing, in order that it might be placed on file at the department.

Mr. Wellington's formal withdrawal of his indorsement has not yet been received at the department. Mr. Mudd threatened to retaliate on Mr. Wellington by with application, but this document, too, yet commins to be received by the Treasury officials.

President McKinley is expected to return to Washington next week, and the dis-position of the Maryland offices will prob-ulty be one of his first acts. The rumors of an agreement between Senator Wel-lington and Postmaster General Gary, whereby Mr. Gary is to join Mr. Wellington in pressing the appointment of Mr. Parran for the collectorship, in return for which Mr. Wellington is to do all in his power to frustrate Mr. Mudd's ambitions for the Senate, to succeed Mr. Gorman, are not credited by Mr. Gary's friends for Gary will withdraw his approval of Mr. Parlett as collector of internal revenue. Representatives Booze and McDouald were here today. To a reporter, Mr. Mc-Donald expressed the following sensible

'A great deal will depend upon the convention, which is to be held in Baltimore tomorrow, and upon the selection of the nen who are to go upon the legislative ticket. The action of the convention will have important bearing upon future events in Republican politics in Maryland "If we get a good legislative ticket," nitinued Capt. McDonald, "we will carry the State by 30,000 majority. There is no question at all about the election of Mr. Maister in Baltimore, for that is almost a foregone conclusion. We must pay more attention to the legislative tribet, however, and it is that which is cassing the Republicana the greatest concern at this time."

NO FEAR OF LIGHTNING.

Electric Bolt Frightens Many, Hits

Few and Kills Still Fewer. A carrent news event gives the results of an investigation carried out by Dr. G. Stanley Hall president of Clark Univer-sity, on the things that most excite fear in people. Of the 298 classes of objects of fear to which 1,707 persons confessed. thunder and lightning led all the rest, although in certain localities, as, for lastance, those subject to evolumes, etc. the be accented as probably true that thunderconstitute the most pron source of fear with the majority of people due, no doubt, to the always impressive and not infrequently overpowering nature of the phenomenon. But is there any justification in fact for this fear so far as fatal results are concerned? We believe there is not, but on the contrary, that many other causes which barely have a place in Dr. Hall's list are infinitely more entitled to the distinction as featproducers ann lightning. As proof of this ning numbered 784, or an average of 196 a year. Again, H. F. Kretzer, of St. Louis. papers that for the five years 1882-83 there were 1,030 deaths caused by lightning, or an average of 200 a year. We doubt whether, of the number of deaths classed any one group can show so small a number. drowned every year, while nearly 150 are 500) persons meet their end by falls of one country with the above records for New secudental deaths every year, it will be seen bow proundless is the popular fear of lightning. It is a survival, an inherited But there is another point in connection with this matter which ought to be particularly comforting to city dwellers at country dwellers may not be ferted in like minmer, and that is that is five times greater in the country than in the city. The cause of this immunity for city dwellers is not far to seek. It is doubtless due to the predominance of metal roofs, the well-grounded water pipes in houses, and probably as much as anything to the protective network of electric wires of all kinds. The popular belief that a stroke of lightning is invariably fatal is also not honre out by facts. Indeed, onrecord specially devoted to this feature shows that of 212 persons struck only 74 were killed. Taking it all in all there seems to be no more groundless popular fear than that of lightning. Inc one can go by statistics, the risk of meeting death by a horse kick in New York is over 50 per cent greater than that of death by lightning.

Yetwith all the weight of statistics against its deadliness, lightning will probably con inue to scare people as heretofore. Per haps, after all there may be a more direct than the mere psychological one usually ascribed to it, and that is the fact that many people of nervous temperament are affected bours before the approach of a thender storm and thus rendered par-ticularly poweriess to stand the strain which more or less affects the most phieg natic natures during a disturbance in the heavens.-Electrical Engineer Missourians Feast on Pumpkin Bread and Paw-Paws.

A little group of ex-Missourians gath-cred at the corner of Fifteenth and Farnam one night fast week, and discussed the paw paw crop. It was agreed that the se had never been finer for the growth of the fruit, and it was decided that at the first sign of frost a shipment of pawpaws red, and a reunion of Mis sourians would be held in some convenien

The pawpaw's chief charm is its sweetness and the ease with which one can get at it. It must be slightly touched by frost before its best qualities are set forth, re-scrabling the persimmon in this respect. After agreeing upon the matter of secur-ing a consignment of pawpaws for the re-

When Dame Nature had finished making all the good fruits, she rested a spell, and then took from each good fruit its best quality, and squeezed the whole into an aber fruit, making one of unsurpassed richness. much of the lake traffic. Where the Brule River flow sinto Lake Superior the and was cleared and a town site mapped out. Mechanics and builders of all kinds Were em ployed with a larish hand, and houses and buildings grew up almost in a night. Such quantities of money were poured into the scheme that Clevelon soon attracted at-tention from the outside world, and numer us families came to the place, bought lots and put un homes.

In a year Clevedon had a population of about 1,100 people, and seemed destined to become the great town the syndicate had planned. A big hotel was creeted, streets were laid out, and the well-built and bright ly painted cottages gave the place an al-r bustling prosperity.

Rut the tide of take commerce refused to sweep down upon Clevedon. It kept or moving toward Dulubb and Superior just as it had before the advent of the new city Then the population began to fade away Cottage after cottage was deserted, and the next calamity was the collapse of the fund behind the syndicate. Two or three time-sibe syndicate secured additional back ing, and made powerful efforts to revive interest in the place, but the energy and money were wasted. Clevedon could not be remiscitated.

By 1890 it was as dead as any place could be. Every one had left. The neat little houses were empty, the big hotel took on a ghostly lock. Grass grew up in the well-laid streets, It was as silent as the pine forests surrounding it. No one ever went that way. It is many miles off the general line of travel, bidden in thick woods on all sides, except where it faces the waters of the lake.

Three years ago some wandering Willie discovered it. Perhaps, years ago, he was one of those who had put his money and faith in the prosperity of Clevedon. At any cate, other hoboes soon after began to pay it fleeting visits. Last fall a score met at Clevedon. Some of them were not natural or voluntary tramps. They were product of the hard times. These saw the place sized up the comfortable houses and the big hotel and determined to spend the winter there. When others came along they were invited to join the permanent colony and many did so. -Milwankee Sentinel.

The Luxury of Sleep.

Two weeks ago a very queer stranger appeared at one of the beach hotels on the South Side. He was well dressed, wel fed, and he brought a very assuring quantity of bagagge with him. He was intelligent genial and pospitable, too, for on sev eral oceasions he had friends come to din with him.

But he was queer. 'Call me at 6 o'clock, sharp," he said to the clerk, on registering. "Have the boy see to it that I am wide awake before he steps knocking."

The clerk assured him that he wouldn't be able to sleep after that boy got his knuckles against the door panels. And he didn't. Every night for two hole weeks the stranger insisted on a o'clock cail, with the urgent provision that he be awakened thoroughly.
